George Johnson, a wealthy trader in Houghton said against Henry James for $50,000, revealing modern uses of the Past variety equaling the original. Johnson alleged that James made an agreement with himself at the end of one year, leaving Johnson $50,000 life insurance, which James had obtained from the States of Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and Iowa, mules average from $104 to $116, and in every State but one. In Minnesota, the average value of mules is higher than of horses, and in the last State the difference is only $3-$94 for mules and $97 for horses. Even in the States of lowest mule value they manage to get horses of still lower value. The total number of horses on January 1, 1907, was 19,746,583, and of mules, 3,816,692, or nearly one in five.

$62, in Utah, to $153 in South Carolina and Georgia. The Southern States have the highest priced mules, but in such prominent horse States as Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and Iowa, mules average from $104 to $116, and in every State but one. In Minnesota, the average value of mules is higher than of horses, and in the last State the difference is only $3-$94 for mules and $97 for horses. Even in the States of lowest mule value they manage to get horses of still lower value. The total number of horses on January 1, 1907, was 19,746,583, and of mules, 3,816,692, or nearly one in five.

Chapman Territory land is advancing rapidly and bounds. Improved lands of cultivation and more available markets make five acres an insurance a more valuable possession than 160 acres a generation ago. The Department of Agriculture declares five acres ample support of a family. How, then, to continue giving to that small remnant of the State's cultivable land in 160-acre tracts, especially since, under the homestead clause of the homestead act, the gift usually goes to some one and-grabber instead of going to the land, to a home builder.

In China the law requires a man to mourn three years for the death of his father, and one hundred days for the death of his mother, but he would be ostracized if he gave way to any signs of grief whatever on death of his mother-in-law. This proves that all mankind is related to some extent.

It may surprise some readers to learn that the average per head value of mules in this country is only $11.16 for the first year, or $112.16 for the first year, or $112.16 for the first year, or $112.16 for the first year.

Nearly all the licenses under the new revenue law to run restaurants, sell soft drinks, post bills, cry sales and long list of other things for which licenses are now required, expire on June 11, and will have to be renewed on that day. About 95 of every 100 licenses under the act were taken out June 11, the day the law went into effect and run one year.

Theodore Tilton, whose chief notoriety came from the Beecher-Tilton scandal of nearly 30 years ago died in Paris last week, where he went to live after Henry Ward Beecher's acquittal. He was 74 years old. The burial took place in Paris.

Pierp. Morgan has just paid $1,000,000 for some art objects. That recent Wall Street panic doesn't seem to have torn from him any of his coupons.

The editors are to meet at Estlin Springs June 17th. They will not repeat their experience at Grayson last year by sending their—by express.

"And when this rose tree bears its first flowers I shall return and you, my love, shall wear them as my bride." It is nearly half a century now since Gen. Sherman, then a dashing young Lieutenant, knelt beside Senora Bonafacio, the most beautiful girl in all California, and pledged his love, as he planned a tiny slip of cloth of Rome. Years went by, the rose bush flourished, blossomed and bloomed and the petals fell in great heaps upon the ground. But the General never returned, and the pretty senora remaining true to her promise, lives today behind the old wall, at Monterey, Cal., with her love of her girlhood's sweetheart still fresh and young.

The first sea serpent at the Jamestown exposition has been seen at the Kentucky building. Thus does the State maintain its notoriety.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON

"More Beyond" is Theme of Splendid Sermon by Rev. Watson to the Graduating Class.

Below we print the baccalaureate sermon, delivered by Rev. E. L. Watson, of Union City, to the graduating class of the Hickman College, at the Court House Sunday morning:

"Eye hath not seen, nor hath not heard, nor hath not entered into the heart of man."

In the sweep of years eye has not seen the most beautiful, even though it may have looked upon the glories of creation morning.

Ear hath not heard the sweetest sounds, although the harmonies of centuries have beat upon it.

Heart hath not conceived all that God is. In the years that are to come with the advance of all ages, doubled, there still remains unfathomed depth in the everlasting Beyond.

The class that is before me on this Commencement day has wrought nobly its part in the prescribed course; but still there is the untraversed beyond. Will you go upon its inviting, far-reaching success to victory? Will you follow me in a brief survey of man from the earliest dawn up the mount to his final destiny?

THE EARLY MORNING.

Deep in the unfathomed wisdom of eternity, God conceived His divine plans of creation and over the world, rich in resource, He made man king. Amidst the harmonies of Eden when every graceful bough was moving magically under the gentle breath of Heaven and every blade of grass was dewy with the freshness of creative morning, God said, "Have Dominion." Was there ever a creation in which there was such splendid manifestations of royalty? A God whose empire is universal. Man whose dominion is world-wide. Is it any wonder that the greatness of this creation stirred the envy of the fallen Aro-angel and enraged the inhabitants of the underworld until the determination was reached to thwart the plans of God?

From the morning of that eventful day the struggle began, and earth was made the battle-ground. Man was about to give over the contest when over the Judian hills arose the song of victory. And the grander form of man appeared when the peaceful Hero of Calvary illuminated the darkness of lost Eden with the glory of His presence, "set the star of hope forever in the firmament of human life and spanned the pathway of man with triumphal arches. The march of humanity is clearly marked, all the way, by the agonies and the ecstasies, the sorrows and joys, the defeats and victories of heroes and heroines since primeval morning. It is chanting the ineffable glory of this wonderful present. It is vocal with the prophecy of a splendid future.

A BACKWARD GLANCE.

Let us ascend the summit of achievements and get a vision of the toiling millions who have wrought so nobly their part in the universal design.

When man was young, his mental and emotive natures were nimble and chaotic. He controlled his beastly body by mere physical strength; he bowed and hammered his human enemy and boasted that his ancestors drank blood from human skulls.

In the deep tangled wild wood of the Danish islands the Saxons fought like tigers. The unhappy offspring of this element forced content between giant beasts and human bodies and drenched the Roman arena with fraternal blood. This age saw the brazen hand of superstition clutch many an innocent life and lay it to rest in a premature grave. It saw man groping in blind credulity baring the bleeding back to the light of the sun, before a polluted shrine where error sat enthroned in darkness.

THE MENTAL AGE.

In the darkness of those days of which we have just spoken, we see the pale light of a new era for man and the mental age begins to feel its power and to assert its rights. It raised the cold finger of reason and points on to toppling thrones and perishing dominions, determined in its march, though characterized by carnage, blood shed and death, to raise man from dens and caves to magnificent palaces of marble, adorned with all the splendor of Ruskin's "Seven Immortal Lambs." It was determined to fill the habitable globe with the busy noise of forge, furnace and factory. In order to accomplish this Perry launches his ill-constructed barque on the wild northern waters. What cared he though the storm bird screamed threats above the rustic mast, or darkness rested on the wave, or wintry blast wrapped his form in crystal gleam. What though the English monsters stood like sentinels upon the bosom of the deep. Urged on by the restless wave he feared no ill fate.

The gentle voice of nature has not called in vain to this age. The philosopher has delved into the depths of thought. The scientist have looked into her profoundest secrets and sought out the mighty of the universe and have raised to the sky a temple to science, on grounds where stood only scattered and isolated stores. The forgers have climbed the mountainous waves, wrestled with the fury of the storm, nor ceased his daring quest until the mystery of the clouds had yielded their power to his dominion and he had made a messenger boy of the lightning.

This age has drawn woman from the realm of serfdom, cleared wide-open the portals of high estimation, and crowned her queen in the universal heart. The prostrate form of virgin purity it has raised a resistless image, and gave to womanhood in its sphere the touches of the master hand.

The poet has lifted the imagination until her imperial wings have soared to worlds beyond the ken of mental eye, breathing songs too grand for mortal ear. Dante thinks, and the embazory of heaven is thrown on the dark background of eternal night, making the "carnal house of man the center of immortal hope. Milton thinks, blending the fires of hell with the symphonies of saints, and the fallen angels leap over the battlements of heaven into eternal death. Shakespeare thinks, and the master hand of past ages gathers gems from every throne and century and weaves them into a crown of deathless glory.

But the mystic ladder from earth to heaven is yet to be built; the human harp, of a thousand strings, is yet awaiting the master touch, which is vibrant with perfect harmony and to which the sweetest singer is yet destined to sing.

THE SPIRITUAL AGE.

It is inspiring to reflect upon the greatness of past ages; but we are reminded that the text says, "Eye hath not seen, Ear hath not heard, Heart hath not conceived." Inspiration has far more lenses to the mental eye, and put new trumpets to the mental ear, and built new apartments to the conceptive heart and the human march is entering into the region beyond—the spiritual age. The radiant glow of the early morning and the supple brilliance of the Mental are blending into the opalescent rays of Spiritual, and the fiery cohorts of grader days sweep through century, bearing us visions of greatness.

To the one who is fully conscious of his natural powers and who will develop physical, mental, and spiritual into one grand equilibrium, nothing is impossible. The wisdom of truth is unwinding the chains of former days; upon her brow rests the crown of love; upon her face beams the smile of patience; her eyes are turned toward the spiritual, where the twinkling stars of the spiritual dawn are heralding the advance of freedom, her banner floats through the waves bearing the proclamation that "If the Son of man will make you free, you shall be free indeed."

This freedom places you in the stream—The Beyond of the Soul—the region of Intuition, of Inspiration, Superconsciousness, the home of the higher faculties of mind, the utmost story of human life, the Kingdom of heaven within.

When we leave all the pictures of physical and mental universe and push on into the depths of the unseen and spiritual universe, we may be said to be in the same old holds. We will see first of all, that the spiritual universe is just as vast and complicated in magnitude and structure as is the physical. The systems of worlds rushing onward forever, like waves of the sea to the shore of peace, are but a visible image of the infinite singers of spiritual life beating outward forever from the heart of God.

Every smallest, most hidden soul is one with the great eternal life. It gives and takes with that eternal source. The call of the beyond finds its way into all remotest solitudes, into the dimmest retreats of littleness and obscurity, and draws by the least of the children of God.

Get this lesson now. Though you gleaned from every field of literature and science, and have set the findings to work in your life and sent the results whirling through the world, your life is a failure without a favorable response to the higher call of God.

I do not ask you to leave behind your animal nature; but to elevate it to a state of purity and obedience. I do not ask you to ignore your mental being, but to tear down its limits of prejudice and illuminate its confines with the divine radiance of the soul, the true God. Will you awake to your own interior power, and to the compensation of the eternal truth that Spirit is Master and Mind is servant. Act not because you know but because you feel. Open your life to the divine inflow—use the finite in harmony with the infinite.

A boy in Corsica was wont to climb the hills that surrounded his narrow home and gaze across the waters with wistful eyes. Yonder lay the great world. He dreamed of adventures and visions of conquest, but for those dreams and visions he might have been content to spend his life in Corsica! As it was, he trumpeted his name along the ages. There are no conquests for those who are satisfied to dwell within the small environment of a groveling life.

Up to the heights O, my Soul! Look beyond; for life is wonder. Life! Eternal life.

Decoration Day.

Sunday, June 9th, will be observed as decoration day by Elm Camp, W. O. W., of this city, with beautiful ceremonies and floral offerings at the graves of their departed brothers, at the city cemetery.

Neighboring camps are specially invited to be here on that day, and a cordial invitation is extended to all friends of woodcraft. Hunziker's Concert Band will furnish music on this occasion. Woodmen will leave the hall at 1:30 Services from 2 to 3 o'clock p. m.

Telephone Case Set for June Tenth, at Frankfort.

The mandamus injunction issued against the Cumberland Telephone Company compelling them to give Hickman subscribers service until the courts have settled the cases in litigation, and which was appealed to the Circuit Court of Appeals at the company last week, will be tried in Frankfort, June 10th.

Carpenter Missing.

Gene Young, a well known carpenter of Fulton, left two weeks ago for St. Louis and has not been heard of since.

Telling his wife and mother he was going to visit his brother in St. Louis and that he would write to them immediately after his arrival there, Mr. Young left on a mid-night train, Tuesday, May 14. His wife, mother and other relatives are very uneasy about him fearing that he has met with foul play.

A letter was received from Mr. Young's brother in St. Louis in which the writer said his brother had not arrived at his home.

H. Lamastus, one of the Courier's staunch friends, was in town Saturday and while here he had us set his subscription up another peg. He says the Courier is getting better every issue and that he would not think of doing without it.

Cue Threlkeld has moved his Bottling Works into new quarters, the old Frank Thompson building on Moulton street, it having been rebuilt and the same old Cue Threlkeld has more room in the new quarters, has everything conveniently arranged and feels as proud as a boy with his first long trousers. Cue is doing a good business and says that it is attributed to the fact that he makes his sodas right and from pure extracts. He has the right idea, there is only one way to do anything, and that is the right way.

May Be Candidate.

Gov. Folk of Missouri, is "not now" a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. Whether he is to become a formidable opponent of Wm. J. Bryan before the next national convention meets depends on the wishes of his Democratic associates.

Politicians believe he will enter the race and win out. This much was made clear by the governor in a long distance telephone interview yesterday.

Gov. Folk read with deep interest a press dispatch from Chicago to the effect that National Committeeman Sullivan, of Illinois, and other Democratic leaders, has decided to boom Folk for president, with Gov. Johnson, of Minnesota, as his running mate. Mr. Sullivan is now in New York. During the past few days he is said to have attended a conference of Democratic managers at which Gov. Folk was mentioned to the exclusion of the Nebraska statesman.

Look for the Courier Realty Co's. proposition in this issue. It will interest you.

Brains Versus Money.

There are two classes who put an exaggerated valuation upon money. Those who have lots of it and those who have little or none. But of the two, absurd offenders against the common sense view are those who have money and plenty of it. How the exaggeration persists and grows is one of the modern mysteries. Of the men of property in this country, a few of those rich by inheritance excepted, how many are there who could not quickly grow rich again if they were to lose all they have? And of those who possess large property, how many would long keep it were it not that they have on guard over it men of brains and character? Yet to hear men talk one would think that when a man put money into an enterprise, he had done that which entitled him to an overwhelming preponderance of consideration. This in the face of the obvious fact that while enterprises innumerable have succeeded without money, not one has ever succeeded without brains. It is absurd enough to rank money above brains. To estimate brains in terms of money is like selling race horses by weight and painting by measure.

The Courier has received a new rate for the Daily Louisville Herald. When it is taken in connection with the Courier, the two papers will cost $2.50. You cannot get good reading matter any cheaper.

Same Price For Newspapers.

If any class of business men ever had good reason for the formation of a trust with a view of advancing prices, the press of this country presents that justification at this time.

The white paper alone on which many papers are printed, costs more than is paid by the purchaser for the printed edition. The cost of white paper has been advancing for years. Printing ink never cost more than at the present time and wages were never higher; yet the price of the out put has been retained. The newspaper of the country in their columns seem to point out everything in the news line pertaining to the formation of trusts in oil, sugar, paper, coal and almost every commodity in general use, but they entirely overlook the fact that they could and should point with great interest to the fact that newspapers are supplying the public with the news of the world under a greater expense of production than at any time previous, while the comparative cost of advertising has not been greatly increased.

The newspapers have been in the front ranks in the development of American civilization and today they give more to the purchaser for the investment than it is possible to receive in any other channel of expenditure. Any thoughtful person, who will carefully consider the increased publication cost of newspapers and the vast amount of information and pleasure the people derive from them at old-time prices, will agree with us that the postage on them, as well as on letters, should be reduced.

The only papers the farmer needs that has rural delivery are a good daily and his home paper. The Courier offers you a combination that is hard to beat—the Daily Louisville Herald and the Courier, for $2.50.

A Scripture Directory.

For the blues, read the twenty-seventh Psalm; for an empty pocket-book, the thirty-seventh; if people seem unkind, read the fifteenth chapter of John; if one is losing confidence in men, the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians; if discouraged about one's work, the one hundred and twenty-eighth Psalm; if tempted to see one's self larger and the world smaller all the time, the nineteenth Psalm; if one cannot have one's own way in everything, the third chapter of James; and if one is all out of sorts, the twelfth chapter of Hebrews should be read.—Selected.

—The Courier gives ALL the news.

The Tramp's Story.

A tramp asked for a free drink in a saloon. The request was granted, and when in the act of drinking the proffered beverage, one of the young men present exclaimed:

"Stop, make us a speech. It is a poor liquor that doesn't loosen a man's tongue."

The tramp hastily swallowed the drink and as the rich liquor coursed through his blood he straightened himself and stood before them with a grace and dignity that his ragged and dirt could not obscure.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I look to-night at you and myself, and it seems to me I look upon the picture of my lost manhood. This bloated face was once as young and handsome as yours. This shambling figure once walked as proudly as yours—a man in the world of men. I, too, once had a home and friends and position. I had a wife as beautiful as an artist's dream. I dropped the priceless pearl of her honor and respect in the wine cup and Cleopatra-like, saw it dissolve and quaffed it down in the brimming draught. I had children as sweet as the flowers of spring, and saw them fade and die under the blighting curse of a drunken father. I had a home where love lit the flame upon the altar and ministered before it, and I put out the holy fire and darkness and desolation reigned in its stead. I had aspirations and ambitions that soared as high as the morning star, and I broke and bruised their beautiful wings and at last strangled them that I might hear their cries no more. To-day I am a husband without a wife; a father without a child; a tramp with no home to call his own; a man in whom every good impulse is dead—and all swallowed up in the maelstrom of drink."

The tramp ceased speaking. The glass fell from his nerveless fingers and shattered into a thousand fragments on the floor. The swinging doors pushed open and shut again, and when the little group about the bar looked up the tramp was gone.

The Court of Appeals, in passing on a case from Trigg county, decided that when the entire county has voted dry one precinct cannot hold a separate election to determine the sense of the voters in that district.

To The Friends And Patrons Of Hickman College.

On account of there being such an interest, and so much comment as to the awarding the Valadictorian and Salutatorian Honors for this year, and inasmuch as it has been referred to the School Board we deem it advisable to publish the grades of the two young ladies which we give below, which, as you will see, Miss Ruby Fleming wins over Miss Mary Annie Menzel by one-eighth of a point:

Their averages are as follows for the three years:

	Miss McDaniel	Miss Fleming
1st year.....	97 1-2	97 3-4
2d year.....	98 1-21-240	98 37-80
3rd year.....	99 1-40	99 1-40
	3)295 17-240	3)295 19-80
	98 257-720	98 297-720

Subtracting the fractions leaves Miss Fleming 40-720 or 1-18 of a point ahead.

We might state that the First Year's Grades have been lost and just recently found which has caused the confusion.

While new laws are being made would it not be advisable to enforce those which are already on the ordinance book? We have an ordinance which prohibits loitering around the depot platform, but what good does it do? It is almost impossible for a person to get to the office of the depot for the idle negroes forever loafing around the platform leading to the office. A person must struggle between them in order to pass and it is at times absolutely impossible for a lady to walk on the platform and must necessarily walk around. Something is needed to be done along this line; it is the duty of the officers of the city to see that such nuisances are abated, and it is high time something was done to stop the evil.

The Paducah News-Democrat came out this week with a special trade edition, or rather a Greater Paducah edition. Paducah is shown to an advantage by numerous half-tones, and meritorious write-ups of the town, her business men, promoters, and her municipal advantages. The edition shows Paducah to advantage, and reflects credit and shows enterprise upon the part of the News-Democrat management.

Mrs. Cora Hampton, of Crystal, Tenn., and her sister, Mrs. William Smith, of Clayton, Tenn., were in Hickman Wednesday, trading. When they started home late in the afternoon, and were going down the hill on Troy Road, just outside the city limits, the harness in some manner broke or came unfastened and scared the horse. A runaway was the result and at the foot of the hill Mrs. Hampton was thrown from the buggy to the ground, suffering several painful injuries. Her collarbone and nose were broken, and we are informed that she suffered internal injuries. Dr. Luten was called and administered to the lady, and she was left with friends who will see that she will want for no attention.

Christian Workers Coming.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Conference, of the Memphis Conference, will convene in Hickman, at the Court House, next Tuesday night June 11th. Rev. Lewis Powell, of 1st Church, Memphis, will preach the opening sermon, after which will follow the communion service.

The regular business session will open on Wednesday 9 a. m., and there will be three services a day, until Friday morning.

We are expecting at least one hundred delegates, besides visitors; and women of the other denominations are going to help entertain these christian workers, for which help we are very grateful.

We earnestly invite all the people of Hickman to attend these meetings, and especially the women of Hickman.

The Executive Committee is called to meet at the Court House, at 4 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, June 11th.
